

Sponsor Form – The David Mather Foundation

Joe Bloggs is attempting to do something extraordinary for the David Mather Foundation. Here are the details. We would be very grateful if you would sponsor him.

The Foundation was set up following the death of David in a paragliding accident in Salta, Argentina on 31 December 2008.

The aim of The David Mather Foundation is to help young people in Salta, who would usually be severely disadvantaged by their background and circumstances, to realise their full potential. To begin with, the Foundation will identify ten young people with academic potential and lots of enthusiasm, and will work with them to find ways in which they can continue with their education, rather than being sent out to work to support themselves and their families. This is likely to include training, financial support, 'buddying' with people who have previously completed higher education, and educating their families so that they are able to emotionally support their children through their studies.

There is, like in many places, a big gulf between the rich and the poor in Salta and we have already seen how the success of one member of a family can massively raise the aspirations of the rest of their family and peers. We hope that by starting small, and helping a little group of young people, they can in turn have a big impact on those around them, and the positive effects will continue...

Please let us keep you informed about what the Foundation is doing by providing your email address below. Also please have a look at our website – davidmatherfoundation.org and/or join our Facebook group – The David Mather Foundation.
